

Education

The majority of ENRASIA members are education institutions offering courses towards bachelor, masters and doctoral degrees.

Below you can find details on upcoming short courses, admission and registration details for courses on environmental science specialising in Asia under the following subjects:

- Environmental policy and governance
- Environmental technology
- Natural resources management

Follow the links in the menu for more information on PhD, MSc and training courses.